

The Rotherfield Players Newsletter

January 2018

Panto time is here. Have you bought your tickets for Cinderella? Performances start on Thursday. The set is looking fantastic and I hear that the costumes are amazing.

The cast is ready and waiting to perform this pantomime story, so make sure you go to see Cinders, Buttons, ugly sisters, Prince Charming, the Fairy Godmother and all, as well as the delightful chorus of dancers.

Tickets have been selling well from the usual sources The Rotherfield Stores, The Courtyard and via the website.

Auditions for our Spring production, J.B. Priestley's Dangerous Corner, take place on Friday 26th January at 7.30 p.m. in the Village Hall. This thought provoking and entertaining play will be directed by Robert Chesterton and performance dates are 12th – 14th April.

There are roles for three men and four women with ages in the 30-60s – so there is a chances to play some complex and interesting characters.

Several Players are in a group that is putting on an afternoon and evening of songs and poems about love to raise money for the Church fabric fund.
